Library Instruction for English 1101

The Ursula C. Schwerin Library’s information literacy and instruction program, in collaboration with faculty across the college, teaches students how to find, critically evaluate, and ethically use information to ensure their success at City Tech and prepare them for lifelong learning in their chosen careers.

Student Learning Outcomes:

After attending the session, students will:

- Understand how and why to evaluate information, and use appropriate criteria to do so
- Learn how to define an appropriate research topic and search strategy
- Understand the differences between resources available on the internet and in the library
- Learn about research resources available to students in the library catalog and databases
- Gain hands-on experience in finding sources for their research topics
- Acquire an appreciation for the indispensability of the library and librarians for their academic careers at City Tech
